Intro: A | D :||

A                            D     A                            D
I let my courage down, I stayed up all night
A                            D
I sat upon the springs, and I chased away the dreams
A                            D
That I was wrong and they were right

A                            D     A                            D
I dream in color, I live in black and white
A                            D
But still I have those days when I'm stumbling through the grays
A                            D
When I drink for boredom and for spite

F#m                        E                            F#m                        E
I was looking for clues inside my deja-vus
F#m                        E                                E
But I found I'm lost again...I found I was lost again.

A                            E                            D

A                            D     A                            D
So I will suffer, or will I be alright
A                            D
I look up into the stars and then down to count my scars
A                            D
And I know mercy

F#m E F#m E
I was looking for clues inside my deja-vus
F#m E
But I found I'm lost again
F#m E F#m E
I was looking for ways around the cliches
F#m E E
But I found I'm caught again...Looks like I'm caught again.

CHORUS (x2)

Oh, it goes on and on.
When I have the wills,
You have the won't's
When I have the do's
You always seem to have the don't's
But that's O.K. I'm only burned on the inside
